

sense of purpose or fulfilment in their work. Possible answers could include things like a sense of accomplishment, financial stability, a desire to help others, or a love for the field or industry in which they work.